Dear Mr. Mills:

Thank you very much for your letter. Both of us very much appreciate your comments.

Sorry you had to find out the hard way just what the years cost you as they go by!

Despite all his handicaps, Harold is still working at trying to get on paper what he has learned during his life time of what has happened to our country over the years, both good and bad, and how difficult it is to uncover the truth about anyhting. He is more than an optimist than I am on the question of truth being revealed about many things.

If you ever get to the point where you are able to travel to this part of the country, a visit from you would be welcome.

Thank you again for writing. And I hope that next time you have an inclination to accompany your crew you take a second look at it!

Sincerely,

Lillian Weisberg
